Meeting Inclusion Challenges in the 21st Century

The forum is intended to open a dialogue between design professionals & community advocates for a more inclusive environment to live, work and play. Joined by experts from a variety of backgrounds participants will learn how "Universal Design" can fit into sustainable design approach & gain exposure to a broad vision to begin meeting the inclusion challenges in the 21st century. Learn how Universal Design is impacting commercial, educational, & residential design as well as the larger impact on the design and functionality of our Michigan communities. Local and State-wide initiatives will be discussed along with ADA provisions outlined in the Michigan Building Code and Federal requirements. A variety of vendors focusing on Universal Design will share their expertise and product lines as well as organizations with additional resources.
