

Component Plan for Excellence: Self Assessment Questionnaire

Leadership ■ Operations ■ Value ■ Excellence

This self assessment is part of an overall plan designed for component leaders (i.e. members, staff, volunteers) who seek to provide the best service and value they can to AIA members and the community.

The Component Plan for Excellence self assessment helps you evaluate and/or increase your awareness of your needs and successes in leadership, operations, value and excellence in the areas of Membership, Communications, Government & Community Relations, Continuing Education, and Governance, Management, and Administration. The first section provides you with a checklist of basic legal requirements related to running an incorporated business. The second section is the basic services that begin to provide measurable value for your members. The third section is for those components seeking to step out of the business-as-usual model and establish themselves as leaders in service to their members, to the community, and to the profession. Those components who are currently operating at the advanced level in some or all areas are welcomed and encouraged to share their practices and experience with others through one of the many communication vehicles offered on the Component Leadership Resources page at AIA.org. If you need more information about a requirement, or do not understand the terminology, please click on a provided hyperlink, or contact AIA Component Relations.

Completing your Component Plan for Excellence Self-Assessment Survey

- 1. Component may complete the self assessment each year as part of the planning process for the following year or as needed.
- 2. The component elected leadership and executive staffs are urged work together to complete the self assessment.
- 3. Consider whether members receive the service, (not whether you provide the service for another component).
 - a. If the service was provided in some way to your members, please check 'Yes'.
 - b. If the service was provided by another component, please indicate if that *shared service was delivered by a local or state component.
 - c. Please check 'No', if the service was not provided during the prior year.
- * A "Shared Service" is defined as a service provided to you by another component through a type of agreement or contract. It is not a service you provide for another component.
